<sup>1</sup> The Anti-Monopoly and Regulated Industries Summer Academy is a project of the Law and Political Economy Project (lpeproject.org). This document was prepared in consultation with the current and past members of the Anti-Monopoly and Regulated Industries Summer Academy’s Faculty Planning Committee (Professors Amy Kapczynski, Sabeel Rahman, William Novak, Frank Pasquale, and Lina Khan) and the Anti-Monopoly Fund of the Economic Security Project. Research assistance was provided by Talia Stender, Sam Aber, and Daniel Backman. Please contact Project Lead Jay Varellas (jvarellas@berkeley.edu) if you have any questions.

Organizational Resources II: Law and Political Economy

There is a rapidly growing ecosystem of organizations active in the Law and Political Economy (LPE) space, including the following:

The Association for the Promotion of Political Economy and the Law (APPEAL)

politicaleconomylaw.org; appeal@politicaleconomylaw.org

APPEAL seeks to advance law and political economy through research, education, and policy through a variety of in-person and online programming. APPEAL has an online monthly reading group, What is Capitalism?, open to faculty, students, and others, focusing especially on law's role in structuring economic power. The next session is on June 25, and you can register on the APPEAL website:

https://politicaleconomylaw.org/content.aspx?page\_id=331&club\_id=456963&item\_id=21322. APPEAL co-sponsors an annual Summer Academy on Law, Money, and Technology, hosted by the University of Manchester. This year's online Academy, Toward Democratic Futures, open to all, will be July 26-30, with registration and program information here:

<https://ysi.ineteconomics.org/project/60772c01659a821c0286cb9f>. Finally, check the website or email (above) for our regular "Office Hours" mentoring sessions for students and new or aspiring scholars, co-hosted by the LPE Project. The August session will include advice for those seeking law-related academic jobs.

Class Crits

classcrits.org; classcrits@classcrits.org

Founded in 2007, Class Crits attracts an interdisciplinary group of scholars interested in law and political economy, as well as activists and legal practitioners who work on the front lines on issues of economic, environmental, racial, and social justice. ClassCrits will be continuing regular online workshops in lieu of its 2021 annual conference, with plans for convening together in person for fall 2022. Topics for recent workshops have included Pandemic Inequality, the Journal of Law and Political Economy, Racial Capitalism, and Democracy, Social Justice and the 2020 Election, and Queering Class.

The Comparative Research in Law and Political Economy Forum

clpe.osgoode.yorku.ca; clpe@osgoode.yorku.ca

The forum for Comparative Research in Law and Political Economy (CLPE) provides a research forum and portal for scholars interested in problems in the delivery of social goods and services under contemporary market frameworks to engage in interdisciplinary work in law, political science, economics, industrial relations, sociology, history, and human geography. Current projects focus on law reform and alternative financing models for long term care, employee rights in insolvency proceedings, workplace regulation reform and sectoral bargaining models in the U.S. and Canada, and the role of pension funds in the transition to a low-carbon economy. For more information, please visit www.clpe.osgoode.yorku.ca or write to clpe@osgoode.yorku.ca.

Journal of Law and Political Economy

escholarship.org/uc/lawandpoliticaleconomy

The Journal of Law and Political Economy (JLPE) is a peer-reviewed, interdisciplinary online journal. JLPE seeks to promote multi- and interdisciplinary analyses of the mutually constitutive interactions among law, society, institutions, and politics. It accepts full-length articles, essays, and book reviews. You can read current and past issues and find information on how to submit your work here:

<https://escholarship.org/uc/lawandpoliticaleconomy/submissionGuidelines>.

The Law and Political Economy Blog

lpeproject.org/blog

The Law and Political Economy Blog regularly publishes content covering to a range of topics related to law and political economy. Information on how to submit your work can be found here: <https://lpeproject.org/submissions>.

The Law and Political Economy Project

lpeproject.org

The AMRI Summer Academy is a project of the Law and Political Economy Project. The LPE Project brings together a network of scholars, practitioners, and students working to develop innovative intellectual, pedagogical, and political interventions to advance the study of political economy and law.

The Law and Society Association's Collaborative Research Network on Law and Political Economy

<https://lawandsociety.site-ym.com/page/CRN55>

A group of LPE scholars have organized a collaborate research network on Law and Political Economy within the Law and Society Association (LSA). It organizes panels and social events at the LSA's annual meetings and had over 70 scholars present papers as part of its panels at the LSA's last in-person annual meetings in 2019. The 2022 LSA conference will be held from July 13-16 in Lisbon, Portugal. If you would like to join the network and its mailing list, please contact Jay Varellas:

jvarellas@berkeley.edu.

LPE in Europe

https://twitter.com/lpe\_europe

A group of students and junior scholars in Europe are organizing an LPE in Europe network. If you are interested, please contact Ioannis Kampourakis:

kampourakis@law.eur.nl.

U.S.-Based LPE Student Groups

A number of U.S. law schools now have LPE-themed student organizations and these groups coordinate via a cross-campus network of LPE student groups. These groups include:

- The Law and Political Economy Society (University of California, Berkeley, School of Law)
- The Boston College Beyond Doctrine LPE Group
- The Alternative Legal Theories Reading Group (University of Miami School of Law)
- NYU Law and Political Economy Association
- Cornell Law and Political Economy Collective
- Penn Law Students for a Democratic Society (LSDS)
- Harvard LPE Association
- Yale Law LPE Student Group

- The Columbia Law and Political Economy Society
- Law & Political Economy at Georgetown (LPEG)

More information is available on the LPE Project's website:

<https://lpeproject.org/student-groups>. Please contact the LPE Project at lpeproject@yale.edu to be connected to other students interested in LPE.
